

Congress of the United States
Washington, DC 20515

May 2, 2017

The Honorable Alexander Acosta
Secretary
Department of Labor
200 Constitution Ave. NW
Washington DC 20210

Dear Secretary Acosta:

Congratulations on your confirmation. We are writing to strongly encourage the department to delay – in its entirety – the Department of Labor’s final rule entitled, “Definition of the term “Fiduciary”; Conflict of Interest Rule-Retirement Investment Advice, 81 Fed. Reg. 20946 (April 8, 2016).” While we understand you are faced with many critical issues, there is an urgent need for your attention to this rule.

We applaud President Trump’s leadership on this matter in issuing his February 3, 2017 presidential memorandum, which directed the department to examine the fiduciary rule and prepare an updated economic analysis to assess whether it will “adversely affect the ability of Americans to gain access to retirement information and financial advice.”¹ We strongly agree with the president’s stated priority in this memorandum “to empower Americans to make their own financial decisions,” and “to facilitate their ability to save for retirement.” As you may be aware, last year the House and Senate passed H.J.Res. 88, a Congressional Review Act resolution that would have overturned the fiduciary rule, but unfortunately it was vetoed by former President Obama.

As members of Congress, we are very concerned about the impacts of this rule on access to retirement advice for small- and medium-sized investors, as well as small businesses who are interested in establishing a retirement plan. In 2015, the Government Accountability Office found that 29 percent of Americans 55 and older have no retirement savings and no traditional pension. In fact, today, nearly 40 million working families haven’t saved anything for retirement. We need to make it easier for working families – particularly low- and middle-income families – to save for their retirement years.

Since this rule was first proposed in 2010, multiple congressional committees have held hearings and written oversight letters that exposed significant shortcomings with this rulemaking. One of the primary concerns that our oversight exposed is that financial advisers would be forced to move from commission-based advisory accounts to fee-based advisory accounts, and that advisers would be unlikely to afford to continue providing advice to small, fee-based accounts. To illustrate this problem, consider a small investor with $2,000. A fee of 1 or 2 percent would amount to between $20 – $40. The most likely outcome for that investor is that they will either invest their funds with no advice or wait to invest until they have sufficient funds to receive advice. Neither of these outcomes is desirable from a public policy perspective.

¹ <https://www.whitehouse.gov/the-press-office/2017/02/03/presidential-memorandum-fiduciary-duty-rule>

This illustration is borne out in many of the reactions to the department's rulemaking. Multiple brokerage firms and insurance companies have announced that they no longer offer brokerage accounts to IRA account owners or exit business lines due to the constraints of the Rule. As predicted, firms have also raised account minimums for investors, limited choices, and moved investors to accounts that offer "execution" only services. These are just a few of the examples of the impact the rule is having on investment advice.

While we appreciate that the department has now delayed enforcement of its rule for 60 days², we urge you to act expeditiously to reverse this significantly flawed rule. Long-term certainty is critical for investment advisers to be able to offer sustainable retirement advice models, and with many firms preparing for nearly a year for implementation of the original rule, many firms are now in limbo as to whether to continue with plans to implement more restrictive retirement-advice plans.

This rule will have significant consequences for our constituents, many of whom would prefer to continue receiving advice that was previously available. The delay that appeared in the Federal Register on April 7, 2017, contravenes the presidential memorandum which directed a new economic analysis of the Rule and the impact it is having on the marketplace. Rather than facilitating an orderly review period, the preamble illogically concludes that the record supports applying major aspects of the Rule before the President's review and updated economic analysis are complete. This is nonsensical.

Again, we strongly urge you to delay this rule in its entirety. We stand ready to work with you to ensure those most in need of retirement advice continue to receive it. We appreciate your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

David P. Roe, M.D.

Erik Paulsen

Robert B. Aderholt

Ted Budd

² <https://www.dol.gov/newsroom/releases/cbsa/cbsa20170404>

Steve Russell

Bruce Westerman

Scott Tipton

Barbara Comstock

John Rutherford

David Young

Roger Marshall, M.D.

Tom Emmer

Brian Babin, D.D.S.

Elise Stefanik

Chris Stewart

John Ratcliffe

Jim Renacci

Barry Loudermilk

Peter King

Liz Cheney

Ralph Abraham, M.D.

Jackie Walorski

Rick W. Allen

Mike Bishop

Richard Hudson

Dennis Ross

Tom MacArthur

Matt Gaetz

David Kustoff

Jim Banks

Ted S. Yoho, D.V.M.

Larry Bucshon, M.D.

Steve Stivers

Mark Meadows

Susan W. Brooks

Markwayne Mullin

Chris Collins

Jason Smith

Ken Buck

Diane Black

Sam Graves

Pat Tiberi

Daniel Webster

Glenn Grothman

French Hill

Luke Messer

Mark Walker

Dan Newhouse

Carlos Curbelo

Darin LaHood

Cathy McMorris Rodgers

Doug Collins

Don Bacon

Ron DeSantis

Lynn Jenkins, CPA

Evan Jenkins

Andy Biggs

Trey Hollingsworth

Mike Kelly

Dave Trott

David G. Valadao

Lou Barletta

Tom Graves

Pete Olson

John Culberson

H. Morgan Griffith

Mac Thornberry

Kevin Cramer

Rob Woodall

Rodney Davis

Robert J. Wittman

Mike Simpson

Bill Posey

Mike Rogers

John Duncan

Steve King

Jeff Duncan
Bill Huizenga
David B. McKinley, P.E.
Adam Kinzinger
Marsha Blackburn
Scott DesJarlais, M.D.
Pat Meehan
Ed Royce
Steven Palazzo
Blaine Luetkemeyer
Pete Sessions
Louie Gohmert
Peter Roskam
Darrell Issa
Sam Johnson
Bob Goodlatte
Michael C. Burgess, M.D.
Kenny Marchant

Steve Chabot

Steve Chabot

Doug Lamborn

Doug Lamborn

Frank D. Lucas

Frank Lucas

Lamar Smith

Lamar Smith

Charles J. Fleischmann

Chuck Fleischmann

Austin Scott

Austin Scott

Rick Crawford

Rick Crawford

Kevin Yoder

Kevin Yoder

Tom Reed

Tom Reed

Todd Rokita

Todd Rokita

Bob Gibbs

Bob Gibbs

Bob Latta

Bob Latta

Randy Hultgren

Randy Hultgren

Kristi Noem

Kristi Noem

Joe Barton

Joe Barton

John Shimkus

John Shimkus

Vicky Hartzler

Vicky Hartzler

F. James Sensenbrenner, Jr.

F. James Sensenbrenner, Jr.

Rod Blum

Adrian Smith

Lloyd Smucker

Steve Pearce

Brad Wenstrup

Mia Love

George Holding

Jim Bridenstine

Rodney Frelinghuysen

Steve Knight

Mike Gallagher

Thomas Massie